DAYLITE Windows

Buying new windows, doors or a conservatory is a great way to improve your home; it can lead to greater security, ventilation, energy efficiency and aesthetics.

But it can be bewildering at the best of times, and we are sure you have a list of questions, such as:-

Q Which company will give me the best service?

Q What is the best value for money?

Q How do I know when I've got a good deal?

Q How good is one product in comparison with another?

DAYLITE have many years experience in the home improvement industry and our reputation counts for everything. Each year our customer base grows along with our product range, so it safe to assume that we must be doing something right.

We are small enough to still care about our customers offering a more personal approach no matter what the size of project it may be, our customer feedback confirms this, this is something we see of paramount importance. On the other hand, our knowledge and expertise allows us to take on the biggest jobs - with the backing of the UK's largest and most successful manufacturers.

TRUE value for money

To the untrained eye, windows, doors and conservatories can look visibly similar in appearance - so it's not always easy to assess which ones are going to offer you the best value for money, now and in the future.

Hindsight is a wonderful thing, and what appears to be a good deal today can turn into a disastrous decision tomorrow. Really cheap prices often reflect poorer quality products and yet really expensive prices don't always guarantee that you're going to get a far superior solution.

So, to offer you some form of reassurance that our products will perform as ably as we say they will, here's a list of some key considerations:

DAYLITE products are fitted with high security hardware and furniture, such as multi-point locking mechanisms that help to safeguard your home against possible break-ins as standard. Fire escape and easy clean hinges are installed as standard.

Strength
DAYLITE windows, doors and conservatories are made from high impact strength PVC-U which determines the quality of the PVC-U and its behaviour when subjected to heat and cold. DAYLITE products are made to standards that meet the highest classification. The multi-chambered construction of the frame gives it incredible strength and significantly increases its thermal efficiency.

Long lasting looks
Time preserving additives are included in the composition of the PVC-U to prevent airborne pollutants and the weather from attacking the surface and prematurely 'ageing' the look of your new windows, doors and conservatory.

The surface of a DAYLITE frame is less likely to fade, turn dull and powdery or become soiled by airbourne pollutants. The wood grain finish on DAYLITE is guaranteed for a FULL 10 YEARS against delamination and discolouration.

All products in our range are covered by our 10 year no quibble guarantee - covering the frames, glass units and hardware - including locks, handles, hinges etc.

So just how good are windows, doors and conservatories made from DAYLITE GROUP?

Well, if we were to tell you that the PVC-U profile undergoes the following tests, you could probably answer that question yourself.

Colourfastness:

Tests carried out in the extreme temperatures of the Arizona desert to simulate long term exposure to weather and airborne pollutants.

Finish quality:

Checks ensure the surface is of a consistent high standard.

Frame 'weldability':

Assesses the ability of the PVC-U sections to be successfully welded.

Temperature stability:

The profile is tested within the required tolerances to ensure that it doesn't melt when hot or become brittle when cold.

Expansion:

Checks that any necessary expansion remains within a specified limit.

Foil lamination:

The specialist foil used on wood grain finishes is tested against peeling or delamination.

The above tests are in addition to those carried out by independent certification bodies such as BSI and BBA.

Why Choose US?

We're local, and as a local company we're here to look after and service the needs of people in our area and protect our reputation as a quality provider of tried and tested home improvement products.

Good local knowledge - we are experienced in fitting new advanced performance windows, doors and conservatories in your area.

You can talk to us face to face -because we're on your doorstep you can call in and talk to a real person whenever you like.

We care because our local reputation relies on it -as a local business a lot of our orders come from our customers recommending our services to others, which is why we work harder to make sure you're happy.

Quality service before, during and after the sale - we'll take a more personal interest in your order and offer you expert advice, oversee the on-site work and respond quickly to any queries after the installation.
